DR. PAIGE WILLIAMS is a speaker, author, and PhD in Organizational Behaviour.

Paige believes that leadership is the most potent leverage point in any system – team, family or workplace – to create positive change. And that we each have a capacity to lead, exceptionally, that we are yet to realise.

Her ambition is bold: to teach, inspire and encourage you to have the confidence, clarity and commitment to be the exceptional leader the world needs you to be.

Using a potent blend of neuroscience, psychology and her own extensive international business leadership experience, Paige helps leaders across business, government, NGOs, and education to lead themselves, their people and the systems they work in, exceptionally.

The results are dramatic and measurable.

An Honorary Fellow of the Centre for Wellbeing Science and an Associate of Melbourne Business School, Paige is known as a leadership and culture expert. The potent combination of real-life leadership experience and deep academic knowledge fuels her superpower of translating complex ideas and academic research to make them real, relevant, and relatable to the work that people do every day.

Paige is the author of five books on leading well in modern times. She is obsessed with one question above all others: 'What does good look like?' and suggests that answering this question requires a multifaceted, systems view of leadership in the 21st century.

In her latest book, The Leaders Ecosystem, she provides nine critical essays and insights that enable a contemporary leader to meet the challenges and leverage the opportunities of our time.
